Cultural mobility funding guide

for the international mobility of artists and culture professionals

FOCUS ON THE BALKAN REGION – EDITION 2022
On the Move is an international information network dedicated to artistic and cultural mobility, gathering 67 members from 26 countries. Since 2002, On the Move has been working to provide regular, up-to-date and free information on mobility opportunities, conditions and funding, and to advocate for the value of cross-border cultural mobility. Co-funded by the European Union and the French Ministry of Culture, On the Move is implementing an ambitious multiannual programme to build the capacities of local, regional, national, European and international stakeholders for the sustainable development of our cultural ecosystems.

In addition to its open call listings, On the Move regularly creates, updates, and publishes Cultural Mobility Funding Guides. These guides are meant to be a resource for artists and other arts workers looking to finance their cross-border travel to and/or from a specific country, world region, or continent. They also serve as mappings of existing opportunities that can be a useful reference document for policymakers and funders at the local, national, European and international levels.

Introduction

The main objective of this Cultural Mobility Funding Guide is to provide an overview of the funding bodies and programmes that support the international mobility of artists and culture professionals travelling from/to 10 Balkan countries, namely Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Kosovo, Montenegro, North Macedonia, Romania, Serbia, and Slovenia.

On the Move commissioned researchers based in Ljubljana, Bucharest, Zagreb and Peja to map grants and support schemes focusing on the Balkan region in order to provide, in a transparent manner, existing information that can help organisations and arts workers find the best ways to engage with international colleagues and finance their international travel. This research took place from March to August 2022.

This Cultural Mobility Funding Guide should also inspire those responsible for public policies and mobility funds at local, regional, national and European level, as well as private donors and mobility stakeholders at large. This guide can reinforce awareness of the remaining obstacles and difficulties that stand in the way of equal access to international opportunities, and suggest areas that should be financed more fairly and efficiently in order to ensure more sustainable support for cross-border cultural collaboration.

How to navigate this guide?

The guide lists local, national and international resources, both public and private. Only regular opportunities accessible online are listed. Funds which only provide information offline, which do not invite applications through open calls, or which are ad hoc or temporary are not included.

There are various reasons a user of this guide might seek mobility funding, including:

- They have been selected for a project in a foreign country (collaboration project, artistic residency, participation in a festival, etc.) but have not been provided with funding for their mobility costs.

- They have developed a project with an international component and wish to invite foreign artists and cultural professionals to one or more places/countries for co-production, touring, market development, etc.

- They are interested in working experiences (including training) in a foreign country and are seeking a way to cover their travel costs.
In light of these different aims, the entries in this guide present the costs that are covered by each scheme, including cross-border travel, visas, per diems, remuneration of collaborators, accommodation, production costs, and other types of support (e.g. translation).

Like On the Move's other Cultural Mobility Funding Guides, this publication includes:

- Opportunities provided by a diverse range of funders: international organisations, regional bodies, national institutions, local authorities, private foundations, etc.

- Schemes supporting a variety of mobility formats, including peer meetings, workshops, residencies, travel grants, training programmes, and networking opportunities, with the aim of supporting everything from collaboration to cultural production, professional development, and the evolution of sector-wide practices.

- Only opportunities for which cross-border travel costs are at least partially funded.

- Opportunities from all arts disciplines: performing arts (theatre, dance, opera, circus, street arts); visual arts (painting, sculpture, photography, installation, applied arts); new media arts and web-based arts; music; literature (writing, translation); heritage (tangible heritage, movable heritage, intangible heritage, archives); interdisciplinary arts; research; cultural management.

- Only funding opportunities that have a regular application cycle. One-off or irregular funding schemes are not listed.

- Only funding opportunities where the information is available online and applications are invited through open calls.

This guide collects:

- Mobility funding opportunities open to nationals and residents in one of the 10 Balkan countries in focus, described as Outgoing Mobility (←).

- Mobility funding opportunities open to nationals from countries other than these 10 Balkan countries, described as Incoming Mobility (→).

This Cultural Mobility Funding Guide also tries to highlight those schemes that respond to growing, transversal sectoral and societal concerns – particularly programmes that make extra funding available for overland travel (where possible), for the needs of disabled artists or caregivers, or for digital or hybrid formats of cross-border collaboration.
Our mapping process and its limits

This guide is an attempt to gather all the relevant resources together in one document. It draws on extensive online research as well as on previously completed studies. However, this guide is by no means complete, and the information provided does not grant any rights to applicants when applying to any of the organisations or funders mentioned in this guide.

Obtaining funding is often a considerable challenge. This Cultural Mobility Funding Guide provides a starting point by mapping support schemes available in/towards this region. However, the joint research for this publication has taken place at a time when many funders are resuming their activity after the Covid-19 crisis – a period which forced many of them to adapt, move online, or cancel their mobility funding schemes. Some funders are currently reviewing their strategies and the information in this document is therefore likely to evolve according to new policy priorities.

Though this guide attempts to be as extensive and accurate as possible, the individual entries may be outdated, inaccurate or incomplete. Please refer to the websites of the listed funds for the latest updates. If you notice errors when reading through this document, please send your comments, suggestions and corrections to: info@on-the-move.org

CulturEU Funding Guide, EU Funding Opportunities for the Cultural and Creative Sectors 2021-2027
- Information on funding opportunities throughout EU programmes:
This online tool can help professionals and organisations to find the right funding opportunity, based on the sector they are working in, their type of organisation, and the support they are looking for.

The accompanying guide (Nov 2021) provides an overview on EU funding programmes related to the arts and cultural sectors:

- Focus on some key funding programmes for the arts and culture sector (reachable for artists, culture professionals and/or organisations):

Culture Moves Europe
An agreement has been signed between the European Commission and the Goethe-Institut for a new 21 million EUR mobility scheme for artists and cultural professionals. Introduction

The information gathered was collected through extensive online research and interviews with different cultural workers in Albania’s independent cultural scene. Despite the lack of specific grants for mobility funding for the culture sector in Albania, there are a few institutes, NGOs, embassies, etc. which offer a variety of funds through their cultural programmes that can also be used for mobility. Most of the financial support for cultural organisations and artists comes through the Ministry of Culture in Albania, which has an open call every year during the month of December, where they invite artists of different fields as well as different cultural organisations throughout the country to apply for funding. Furthermore, they are currently working on creating a funded residency space for artists, which is expected to be finished in the next two years.

Throughout the years, local government institutes around Europe have shown great interest in collaborating with different artists and cultural organisations in Albania. This has led to residency programmes which facilitate an exchange of artists between different European countries. A monthly open call for funding is also available from the municipality of Tirana for artists, NGOs, and cultural organisations.

Several embassies in Albania also offer different types of funding, which are always posted via open call and adopt different focuses. The British Council and Western Balkan Fund are also active in Albania in providing specific funding towards cultural projects.

The purpose of the Twinning programme is to bring together two organisations, working in the field of art and culture and from Balkan countries, with the aim of working closely for a period of time and creating a space for mutual learning, engagement, capacity building, and networking. The first pilot project was launched in 2021, with six organisations participating. Each received a grant of up to 4,000 EUR for travel, accommodation, per diems, and production expenses based on their activities. Introduction

The information gathered was collected through a mapping process which was based on desk research and a standardised questionnaire distributed to diverse potential funders active in each mapped state.

This questionnaire was sent to the Ministry of Civil Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina, Federal Ministry of Culture and Sports, Ministry of Education and Culture of the Republic of Srpska, Ministry of Culture and Sports of the Canton of Sarajevo, as well as to the Publishing Fund Sarajevo, Cinematographic Fund Sarajevo, and Fund for Music, Performing and Visual Arts. Responses were received by the Ministry of Civil Affairs and Ministry of Education and Culture of the Canton of Sarajevo.

As a result of peace negotiations following the Bosnian war in the 1990s, Bosnia and Herzegovina has a very complex governing structure, organised into two main entities, with ten cantons and one special district – each with its own government. It is therefore quite complicated to track all possible sources of funding at the local, regional and national levels.

Local, regional and national funding schemes for mobility are also extremely scarce. Support for international cultural cooperation and cultural institutions is provided at the national level, while the Canton of Sarajevo provides support for exchanges for civil society organisations in the field of culture and inclusion.

A slightly larger number of funding opportunities is provided by international foundations, foreign cultural institutes (such as Goethe-Institut, British Council, and various embassies), and other entities. These target either artists and cultural operators from Bosnia and Herzegovina or those that reside in the country.

Introduction

The information gathered was collected through a mapping process which was based on desk research and a standardised questionnaire distributed to diverse potential funders active in each mapped state.

A previous Mobility Funding Guide for Bulgaria was published in 2018, and the institutions/funders listed in this were contacted in order to update the information for applicants. One of these (State Institute for Culture - Ministry of Foreign Affairs) no longer finances cultural mobility, so is not included here.

At the state level, cultural policy and the administration of the cultural sector is governed by the Ministry of Culture. In 2000, the National Culture Fund (NCF) was established with the goal of supporting the development of culture in accordance with national cultural policies. Within this programme, the NCF distributes, on a competitive basis, yearly grants dedicated to the travel expenses of artists and managers. In 2003, a programme for international cultural exchange and mobility was launched.

At the local level, the Municipal Council has the obligation to create a municipal culture fund. This is financially supported by several sources, including the implementation of targeted programmes and projects in the field of culture; donations, legacies and sponsorships; and interest on the accounts of the fund. The fund's resources are directed to the implementation of cultural projects, participation in co-productions with individuals and legal entities of Bulgarian and international cultural initiatives, supporting amateur art activities, and providing scholarships for talented children.

According to information given in the Compendium of Cultural Policies and Trends from 2020, there is a lack of systematic information on private financing of culture and cultural activities in the Republic of Bulgaria. Bulgarian citizens can nonetheless apply for funds provided by organisations such as CEC ArtsLink, the Asia-Europe Foundation (ASEF), the Creative Europe programme, and ERSTE Foundation, as well as seek support from foreign institutes and embassies.

The questionnaire for this guide was also sent to Pro Rodopi Foundation, but it does not finance mobility as such. At the time of publishing this document, we haven't received responses from TAM space for culture Veliko Tarnovo, Poiema Collective Bregovo, or Little Bird Place Residency Leshten.

Other types of funding opportunities

The mobility of artists and cultural professionals can sometimes be supported within the general activities / cultural programmes of bodies like the Goethe-Institut, Institut français, British Council, and other foreign embassies in Bulgaria. However, there are also a few specific projects for the region:

* Goethe-Institut Bulgaria: ‘Air Studio’ Residency

Air Studio is designed to support and give more space to the independent art scene in Bulgaria – a key part of the Goethe-Institut’s cultural programme in recent years. From 2017 to 2019, the ‘Luftstudio’ was a physical space in the Goethe-Institut building, made available free of charge for local artists and collectives to use for events, rehearsals, workshops, etc. Since then it has been expanded into a general concept that unites the various activities of the institute in providing space for artistic research and development and exchange between Bulgaria and Germany (such as the curatorial residency CLICK, the partner residency Rad.Ost, etc.). In 2021, the Goethe-Institut Bulgaria implemented the Air Studio programme with an artist in residence and exchange programme delivered with Akademie Schloss Solitude as part of their Eastern European Network.

* Goethe-Institut Bulgaria: Open Windows

The Open Windows project is a platform for encounters and cultural exchange which opens up opportunities for new artistic experiments and the creation of a more sustainable international network. As a result of the collaboration between Galerie Structura, Goethe-Institut Bulgaria, and the independent project ROAM, Berlin, German artists will come to Sofia to get to know the local art scene, its principal actors, and the surrounding socio-political situation. The site-specific projects created as part of this artistic residency are intended for the gallery’s windows. The artworks will therefore be visible from the street, subtly involving passers-by in the art world.

Introduction

The information gathered was collected through a mapping process which was based on desk research and a standardised questionnaire distributed to diverse potential funders active in each mapped state.

A previous Mobility Funding Guide for Croatia was published in 2015, and the institutions/funders listed in this were contacted in order to update the information for applicants. Mala performerska scena and City of Zagreb (cultural office) are no longer active, and so are not included here.

The Croatian state, below the national government, is organised around 21 regions with their own ‘governments’, cities or towns, and local municipalities. Funding for culture is provided through public calls for ‘public needs in culture’. According to law, local municipalities with 10,000 or more inhabitants who grant funds for culture are obliged to have a cultural council evaluating applications. Mobility is often funded in the framework of ‘public needs in culture’, as part of a wider project or programme, or through funding for intermunicipal and international cooperation. At the national level, an example of this is the Ministry of Culture and Media. At regional and local levels, examples are the Region of Istria, City of Zagreb, or City of Split.

There are many small, but still useful sources of funding for mobility in Croatia. The main national bodies providing support for mobility programmes are the Ministry of Culture and Media of the Republic of Croatia, the Croatian Audiovisual Centre, and Kultura Nova Foundation. At the regional and local levels, funding is provided by the Region of Istria, City of Zagreb, and City of Split. City of Pula was also contacted, but the municipality closed the funding strand for international cultural cooperation in 2020 (due to the pandemic).

Among cultural organisations, some provide support for mobility in the framework of programmes they run – such as Association WHW – What, How and for Whom for the international curatorial programme WHW Academy; Institute for Contemporary Art, Zagreb in the framework of the Radoslav Putar Award; and Zagreb Dance Company, which publishes annual calls for residencies at the Mediterranean Dance Center located in Istria. It is also interesting to note that the WHW Academy, which takes place in Zagreb, Croatia, is financed by the ERSTE Foundation and represents a sort of offspring of its NGO Academy project but in the field of contemporary arts.

Croatia, as a member of the European Union, has access to diverse funding schemes at the EU level, such as Creative Europe, Erasmus+, and so on. Support for mobility can also be gained from foreign institutes and embassies, like Goethe-Institut, Institut français, or the US Embassy.

* FAKI (Festival of Alternative Theatrical Expression)

FAKI (Festival of Alternative Theatrical Expression) is a non-profit theatre festival with an emphasis on subversive and marginal theatre practices. Every year, FAKI brings performances and plays from all over the world to Zagreb, and presents them during the last week of May (following artistic residencies organised in the run-up). The festival was created in 1998 as a response to rising elitism, but also to the commercialisation of the institutional cultural environment, whose political and artistic one-sidedness was a handicap to the independent, avant-garde, subversive and experimental work of theatre and performance artists. Avant-garde performance research, innovative ideas, and original processes, alongside the political and personal self-awareness of the authors, and the humanity of their message, form the basis of the festival’s selection criteria.

Introduction

In general, the majority of financial support for artists and cultural organisations comes from government institutions at national level. The greatest support comes from the Ministry of Culture, Youth and Sports, which recently (in 2022) designed a special call for mobility funding and has also designed special calls for study visits for young professionals/students in the fields of culture and cultural heritage. The Ministry of Education has also opened a call for support for mobility funding for young scientists to conduct research that cannot be carried out in the Republic of Kosovo.

Cinematographic Center of Kosovo is another institution that indirectly assists mobility, running open calls for subsidies for film projects (most of which are co-financed with other countries), and trying to promote the Kosovo film industry in various festivals. It also runs open calls for participation in various workshops or programmes such as EUROPE! VOICES OF WOMEN IN FILM, SEE Cinema Network, and European Film Promotion (EFP).

In addition to local bodies, international institutions/organisations also support mobility through various programmes and projects. The European Union is a great source of funding through programmes such as Erasmus+ and Creative Europe. Other organisations such as Goethe-Institut, Platforma Kooperativa, CEC ArtsLink, Western Balkan Fund, or Institut français are also active. Kosovar organisations can apply to relevant country embassies when they would like to invite foreign artists to Kosovo.

Introduction

The information gathered was collected through a mapping process which was based on desk research and a standardised questionnaire distributed to diverse potential funders active in each mapped state.

The national Montenegrin authorities are responsible for legislation in fields of cultural heritage and the media; strategies and policies; centralised cultural activities and issuing tenders for cultural projects; arts and creative projects legislation; regulating library activity and the national archives; regulating museums; programmes for the preservation and protection of cultural sites and items; international cooperation in the cultural sector; and cooperation with NGOs for oversight of theatres. The Ministry of Culture and Media is also responsible for the coordination of the Culture and Media sub-programmes under Creative Europe, and the management of EU funds.

According to a UNESCO report from 2016, the efforts of the Ministry of Culture were focused on the improvement of legal frameworks, reorganisation of the national institutional framework in culture, and the establishment of new institutions. The report also stressed improvements in the field of international cooperation through participation in EU programmes, through the signing of bilateral agreements and programmes for cooperation, and through continuing participation and establishing new initiatives in regional and international partnerships — all of which contributed to the improvement of conditions for cultural mobility. The Montenegrin Ministry of Culture, in the same report, indicates international cooperation as one of the strategic priorities for the period from 2016 to 2020.

As of April 2022, the main national body in charge of culture has changed its title to the Ministry of Culture and Media of Montenegro. It provides support for cultural and artistic creation based on open calls, and through them funds international cooperation and awards travel grants.

The questionnaire for this research was also sent to the public institution Film Centre, but they replied that they do not support mobility activities.

Responsibilities given to municipalities are: regulation of cultural development; maintenance of cultural facilities (museums, etc.); making decisions on expropriating heritable property to meet local needs; preservation of cultural heritage; and promotion of local cultural activities. Although the municipal level covers a broad scope of duties, there is no data on the projects and programmes supported at the municipal level.

Alongside local public funding, Montenegrin artists and cultural professionals can also partake in programmes like CEC ArtsLink, Visegrad Fund, and Creative Europe.

* Ministry of Culture and Media of Montenegro – Capital Projects

In recent years the Ministry of Culture and Media of Montenegro has been implementing a major cultural project to create residency centres/creative hubs in Montenegro. This initiative has seen significant work take place on infrastructure, reconstruction and revitalisation at seven locations across Montenegro. Residency centres are being established at a number of sites:

- Building no. 85 within the Old City Palace in Bar – a creative hub for contemporary sculpture, modelling, and multimedia (with residencies).
- Military complex Cerovo in Bijelo Polje – a regional creative centre.
- Prison building in Old City Kotor – a centre for the development of creative industries (with residential units).
- Buildings no. 2 and 3 within the Jusovača Dungeon in Podgorica – a creative hub for the development of ICT.
- The Španjola Fortress Complex in Herceg Novi – a creative hub (with residencies for artists).
- Pekić House in Šavnik – a residency centre for writers.
- The Lazar Sočić Castle Complex in Plužine – a residency centre for research in the fields of history and protected UNESCO areas.

So far, the creative hub for contemporary sculpture, modelling and multimedia in Bar and the residency centre for writers in Šavnik have been established and are now implementing residency activities on a regular basis. The Prison building in Old City Kotor has also been fully reconstructed and should start implementing residency activities in the near future.

Introduction

In general, financial support for individuals and legal entities (public and private organisations) based in North Macedonia, who are active in the cultural and creative sectors, is provided by the Ministry of Culture, North Macedonia Film Agency, City of Skopje (and some other cities with a vibrant cultural life), and the Ministry of Education and Science.

So far, national and local authorities covering international development and the promotion of Macedonian cultural and creative sectors (CCSs) have not yet designed a scheme specifically aimed at supporting transnational mobility in these sectors. The existing financial support for international mobility depends on: priorities, measures, and criteria of specific calls; types and scopes of the programme/project activities; and participation of North Macedonia in bilateral, international or regional programmes and initiatives.

In 2021, Macedonian CCSs cancelled or postponed many transnational activities due to the global Covid-19 pandemic, and consequently the support for mobility has been reduced.

The main supporter of international mobility for CCSs operating in North Macedonia is the European Union through its various programmes, in particular Creative Europe, Erasmus+, Horizon Europe, IPA pre-accession instrument (CBC), and Balkan MED. The respective national authorities – i.e. Ministry of Culture, North Macedonian Film Agency, Ministry of Education and Science, Ministry of Local Self Government and Municipalities – are relevant partners in this domain, being responsible for the implementation of these EU mechanisms on the national/local level.

The mobility of artists and cultural professionals is supported also within the cultural programme/project activities of Goethe-Institut, Institut français, British Council, the US Embassy, and other foreign embassies established in North Macedonia. Additionally, North Macedonian stakeholders are eligible to participate in mechanisms focused on specific European regions, in particular those of the Western Balkan Foundation and the Visegrad Fund.

Each seminar lasts between 2 and 6 weeks and welcomes between 20 and 30 musicians.

Country specific information resources
Introduction

The research process for this publication was based on desk research on available online information. The new information that has been added mainly concerns public funding at city level, as well as mobility opportunities provided by foreign cultural institutes in the country, or by organisations in the framework of more established international artistic residencies.

Public funding in Romania is mainly dispersed in the form of project grants to national public and private organisations in the cultural and creative sectors. Funding is also available at city and regional levels, via municipalities and county councils – and some of the larger cities with relevant grant schemes are showcased in this guide. While there is no particular fund exclusively dedicated to transnational cooperation and mobility, many national and local grant schemes include relevant priorities linked to promoting collaborations and the visibility of Romanian arts and culture in Europe and worldwide, encouraging applicants to develop projects with this aim in mind.

Individual artists and cultural professionals cannot apply directly to these public grants, but they can benefit from transnational mobilities in the context of funded projects, which may include collaborative activities with foreign partners that cover cross-border travel. An important exception in this respect is the Romanian Cultural Institute, which offers direct small grants and scholarships for individual students, artists, researchers and other professionals from Romania to travel to other countries, as well as for foreign professionals to come to Romania.

The mobility of artists and cultural professionals can also be considered in the activities of cultural programmes of foreign cultural institutes based in Romania, like Goethe-Institut, Institut français, or British Council, and of foreign embassies in the country. Some of these cultural diplomacy institutions have dedicated grant schemes that encourage artistic exchanges and mobility with professionals in their respective countries, while others focus on their own projects and develop partnerships with sector-specific Romanian organisations for particular actions and events.

EU funding from various programmes (Creative Europe, Erasmus+, etc.) is also an important source of international mobility support for Romanian operators and culture professionals. Organisations who participate as partners in these co-funded cooperation projects are often able to provide further support for individual mobility within their project activities – for instance, through art residencies for Romanian and foreign participants.

Country-specific information resources
Introduction

The work was based on desk research and information available on the websites of relevant public authorities, cultural diplomacy institutions in the country, and other active organisations at national level that provide international mobility programmes, particularly via artist residencies.

The included funding schemes of the Serbian Ministry of Culture and Information are coordinated by two departments. On the one hand, the Department for International Relations and European Integration runs a number of calls focused on international cooperation and the promotion of Serbian arts and culture abroad, including one particularly dedicated to the mobility of Serbian artists and culture professionals, which can be accessed by public and private organisations at national level. A recent development in the Covid-19 pandemic context is the introduction of a new strand for digital mobility that supports the production and preparation of artistic content and works, Serbian artists’ participation in international online festivals, professional gatherings, exhibitions, and other types of online presentations organised by foreign partners in the virtual space. On the other hand, the Department for Contemporary Art organises annual calls for cultural projects spanning the entire spectrum of contemporary creativity. Although not necessarily focused on international partnerships and mobility, grant priorities in this latter case often include transnational collaborations, exchanges, and opportunities for visibility, allowing applicants to include a relevant cross-border mobility dimension in their activities. The same applies to the funding opportunities offered at regional or city level that are included in the guide (e.g. Vojvodina, Novi Sad).

Worth mentioning is the existence of co-funding schemes for cultural cooperation projects that involve Serbian partners and are already supported by various EU or international funds (like Creative Europe, cross-border cooperation programmes, etc.). These strategic mechanisms are implemented at the Ministry level but also at city level (i.e. Novi Sad). They represent another relevant form of support for activities which involve transnational travel, co-production and exchange.

The mobility of artists and cultural professionals is also supported through various grant schemes or via other types of programmes provided by several foreign institutes and embassies in Serbia, like Institut français, British Council, Goethe-Institut, Austrian Cultural Forum in Belgrade, Instituto Cervantes, the US Embassy, etc.

EU funding from various programmes (Creative Europe, Erasmus+, etc.) is also an important source of international mobility support for Serbian operators and culture professionals.

Other types of funding opportunities

Country specific information resources
Introduction

National funds supporting the international mobility of artists and cultural operators travelling from/to Slovenia are mostly focused on outgoing mobility, with travel grants funded mainly through the Ministry of Culture and the various (urban) municipalities. These have a tiered system offering two kinds of co-financing for non-public institutions: project-based (annual, two-year and four-year projects) and programme-based (multiannual support for numerous authors/projects). Calls are divided according to the artistic discipline and many organisations apply across different disciplines. Organisations may receive only one or the other type of funding, not both. The distinction between project- and programme-based funding can be helpful to keep in mind when you are looking for Slovene partners. Programme-based funding is a sign that an organisation has the ability to create an ongoing programme and usually that they have substantial experience in the international arena. Many smaller and project-based Slovene organisations are avid participants in international collaborations and have even been coordinators of EU-funded projects. Indeed, EU programmes represent an important source of funding, as there is only limited support for transnational mobility funding from international cultural institutions based in Slovenia. A special scheme has been jointly implemented by the Ministry of Culture and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to support selected cultural events organised by Slovenian embassies and consulates worldwide.

EU funding from various programmes has become an increasingly important – and urgent – source of funding for international cooperation with Slovenian cultural organisations. The most significant contributor is Creative Europe, for which co-financing schemes tailored to EU-funded projects involving Slovene partners are offered by the Ministry of Culture, the Ministry of Public Administration, and the Municipality of Ljubljana. Smaller municipalities (e.g. Ravne na Koroškem) are also introducing such co-funding schemes. Since 2022, a new mobility scheme has been launched within Creative Europe – Culture Moves Europe (based on the i-Portunus pilot project) – which supports short-term mobility for artists and culture professionals. Short-term (study or research) mobility to/from Slovenia is also supported through the Erasmus+ and Horizon Europe programmes.

Funding related to literature and publishing is carried out by the Slovenian Book Agency. The national cultural programme for the film sector is implemented by the Slovenian Film Centre. The Public Fund for Cultural Activities of the Republic of Slovenia oversees amateur art and cultural activities, especially for youth, with 59 branch offices across the country.

Mobility funding accessible to nationals from countries other than Slovenia is available through various residency programmes. Not many cover travel costs, but rather offer free accommodation, working space, production costs, etc.
